A GREAT SHIPBUILDING FIRM .- t is a remarkable fact that nearly all our knowledge of the modern conditions of naval warfare has been derived from vessels designed and built by Laird Bros., of Birkenhead. Thus the Alabama demonstrated what a comparatively fast steam cruiser could accomplish against purely merchant vessels and also how unable these so-called armed merchant cruisers are to cope with a warship. The Huascar and her history are too familiar to our readers to need repetition. H. M. S. Rattlesnake, the first sea-going torpedo ship which could keep the sea and be relied upon to be in perfect order; the Chilian torpedo catchers Almirante Condell and Almirante Lynch, both of which took part in one of the most sanguinary wars of the century, and which demonstrated what could be practically accomplished by a resolute foe with a fast torpedo ship; the Argentine armored battleships Libertad and Independencia, which have been described as the two west received by war vessels affeat. most remarkable war vessels affoat:
these and many other warships are entirely the design of Mr. Henry Laird.
In the various types of merchant ships he was no less successful, but there was one type which the Lairds would never touch and that was the "ocean tramp." As instances of the highest class of ocean mail steamships, the vessels of the National Line in their DRUGGISTS. day were among the finest afloat, while among more modern mail steamships the Columbia holds a front rank in the Atlantic .- The Engineer.
